

Rural Fillmore Youth Injured In Car Mishap

A rural Fillmore young man was injured in a one-car accident on County Road 100 North, in Marion Township, at 10:10 p.m. Monday.

Jerry Morlan, 20, Fillmore, Route 1, suffered a broken collar bone in the mishap.

According to Deputy Sheriff Mel Mangus, Morlan was driving west in a 1962 Buick when it edged off the road. The auto brushed some trees and then bounced off across the highway and hit a mail box.

Morlan was thrown out of the car when it came in contact with the trees.

Deputy Mangus estimated the automobile as a total loss as result of the accident.

In Greencastle police news, one traffic citation was issued

Monday night.

Henry A. Stitzle, 18, Reelsville, Route 1, was arrested at 8:55 p.m. and ticketed for speeding in a posted zone on South Jackson Street.

In other news: Greencastle firemen made their 71st and 72nd runs of the year Monday.

At 2:50 p.m. they went to the Albin Pond Road, east of Greenbriar, when a county highway truck caught fire when the carburetor backfired.

One hundred gallons of water from the truck's booster tank extinguished the blaze.

Damage was estimated at $600 when the firemen returned to the station at 3:20 p.m.

Cars Collide On State Road 240

The 1964 Plymouth driven by Betty Bartlett is prepared to be towed away following an accident yesterday on State Road 240. Also involved in the accident was a 1974 Chevrolet driven by Deborah Adams. No charges were made.

A 1974 Chevrolet, driven by Deborah Adams, collided with a 1964 Plymouth, driven by Betty Bartlett in an accident yesterday afternoon on State Road 240 on the east edge of town.

Two occupants of the car were taken to Putnam County Hospital, examined and released.

Damage was done to the right front end of the Adams car and to the left rear of the Bartlett car; as the Bartlett auto turned, while the Adams auto was passing on the side.

No charges were made.

Mallory Dividend

The Board of Directors of P.R. Mallory & Co. Inc. declared a dividend at the rate of 25 cents per share on the common stock of the corporation, payable June 3 to shareholders of record at the close of business on May 6.

Information On Evergreens Given

Forrest T. Miller, Extension Agent-Forestry, has released this information on evergreens.

Severe winter temperatures, near zero, following unseasonably warm early spring weather has caused much browning of foliage, especially on (Taxus) the yews.

Also noticed on some arborvitae (white cedar) this condition is due to winter drying, the drying out of foliage when all moisture is locked in frozen soil and winds pull needed moisture out of the foliage. Since yews respond well to pruning, it is wise to clip back brown shoots and let new growth fill the gaps as buds open on the remaining live woody stems.

Even on those yews which appear to be completely killed, heavy pruning may result in new growth at the base of the woody stems. Arborvitae is difficult to prune without destroying the shape of the entire tree. However, all such evergreens showing terminal damage should be pruned, fertilized, and watered. If this doesn't work, replace the plant.

Browning of needles on the needles (those with needles 3-6 inches long) is often caused by needle cast. Spray with 8-8-100 Bordeaux mixture now as new growth appears. Spray twice at ten day intervals.

Many ornamental trees and shrubs should be sprayed in early May for caterpillars, mites, and borers. Check with your extension office if you have any further questions.

Dentist To Attend Convention

Improvement of the effectiveness and efficiency of dental health care services to millions of Hoosiers will be examined May 5 and 6 at the 116th annual convention of the Indiana Dental Association.

Nearly 3000 dentists, auxiliary members, hygienists and dental assistants are expected to attend the conference in the Indiana Convention-Exposition Center at Indianapolis.

Greencastle dentist, Dr. Thomas M. Graffis, will be a delegate to the convention. He is also chairman pro tem of the Dental Law Committee, Dr. J. Terrence Frey will be an alternate delegate.

Keynoting the four-day scientific and business session will be Mayor Dolly McNutt of Paducah, Ky., whose topic "Point and Counterpoint," will examine problems facing the country today.

Dr. Carlton H. Williams of personnel.

Dr. R. Dan Rohn of Alexandria, IDA president, will preside at the convention which will begin May 4 with meetings of the House of Delegates and resolution opening general meeting May 5. Two awards will be presented for outstanding service to the dental profession.

Reporting that afternoon on dental manpower planning will be Dr. Merrill W. Packer, acting director of the Division of Dental Health, U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Other scientific sessions May 5 and 6 will be concerned with the use of the newest dental health care ideas, equipment and personnel in small communities; increased efficiency through use of the open floor office arrangement and vitreous carbon implants.

An innovation this year will be luncheon round-table discussions on May 6 covering plaque control in restorative dental practice, modern restoration of missing teeth, the orthodontic approach to the treatment of unusual adult dental problems and utilization of dental auxiliary San Diego, president of the American Dental Association, also will address the reference committees.

Exhibits of the newest in dental equipment will be displayed May 5 and 6 with the President's Reception and annual dinner dance also scheduled on May 5. New and innovative ways to provide improved dental care will be demonstrated at table clinics also on May 5 and 6.

The convention will conclude May 7 with a meeting of the board of trustees.

Ride A Bike Day Termed Success By Co-Chairman

Sandra Whiting, co-chairman of Ride A Bike For The Retarded Day reports that the ride which was held on Sunday, April 28 was a tremendous success.

Through sponsorships from individuals and organizations, the 29 riders participating in the ten mile ride had pledges totalling $201.65.

Cyclists who rode in the event and have not turned in their money, should send their outstanding pledges to Sandra Whiting, Route 1, Cloverdale, or Harlana Slavens, in care of the Cloverdale elementary school.

All money should be turned in by May 11. Any individual, organization or merchant that would like to donate money for the retarded may send their donations to the above addresses.

Board Meets

The monthly meeting of the Putnam County Fair Board will be held Wednesday evening, May 1, at the Community Building, beginning at 8 p.m. All directors are urged to be present.

Myers On Campaign Reform

This report comes from Seventh District Congressman John Myers.

Recently publicized unethical and illegal political activities have re-emphasized the need for campaign and election reform. However, in the rush to reform, we must not overlook the good provisions set forth in the 1971 Federal Elections Campaign Act. Reform is only necessary in some areas and it is here that the attention must be drawn and an effective compromise reached.

The House Republican Task Force has taken great strides toward realistic solutions to campaign abuses, and the President has sent a comprehensive campaign reform message to Congress. Both stress the priority of reform in the areas of campaign financing.

It is generally agreed that too much money has been spent on Presidential and Congressional races in the past. However, so-called public financing, which has been suggested, is not the solution. This proposal is not, in fact "public" financing—it is taxpayer financing and it would force taxpayers to support political parties and candidates with which they might totally disagree.

The supporters of this raid on the federal treasury argue that such a system would remove the corrupting influence of vast sums of money and the purchasing of influence by large contributors and special interest groups. But, the Task Force and other proposals to place a ceiling on all cash donations, complemented by the requirement of complete financial disclosure, should eliminate such problems without wiping out the right of the people to participate in their political system by choice.

Supposedly, federal financing also would eliminate the necessity for candidates to go begging for funds. Then again, in 1972, approximately 1,000,000 individuals contributed to President Nixon's re-election campaign. The majority of these donations were in amounts of $100 or less with the average of these being less than $25. In my own campaign for re-election in 1972, more than 1,200 individuals contributed an average of just over $26 each. Ninety-nine percent of the donations from individuals were less than $100. Clearly the people are prepared to voluntarily support candidates of their choice.

Still on the subject of campaign financing, the Task Force recommended full accountability of campaign funds to eliminate donations from ambiguous sources. All contributions should be specifically tied to the original donor, excepting only donations by a national political party organization, which already fully reports individual donations.

In regard to campaign practices, it has been suggested that additional federal laws are needed to deter or punish illegal or unethical activities in federal election campaigns. It has been proposed that measures be taken to halt such activities as organized and intentional disruption of a candidate's campaign.

On campaign duration, the Task Force very aptly proposed shortening campaign periods to increase voter interest and participation. People now tend to become bored and disinterested when they are subjected to marathon campaigns. The extent and duration of proliferating primary contests have not only extended the length of campaigning, but also added to the expense.

Strong political parties will increase public confidence and make government more responsive to the people. Qualified people should be encouraged to run for office and maintain a strong two-party system. The President has urged Congress to examine its own benefits of incumbency which have mounted over the years to develop reforms that will assure equal treatment of incumbents and challengers alike.

There is one more vital proposal set forth by the Task Force. That is the establishment of an independent Federal Elections Commission to supervise the 1971 Act and any new election laws. The FEC would consolidate the powers of the three existing supervisory authorities and in addition, have power to subpoena.

Republicans have recently been unfairly pictured as resisting reform. Clearly, this is not the case. Republicans have fought and will continue to fight for realistic, responsible and enforceable reforms that do not tear the heart out of our great participatory political system.

Walkathon To Help County Poster Child

There is a young lady in Putnam County who needs your help. She is just like any little girl that you see on the street, blonde, cute, and she enjoys swimming and horseback riding. She is Jaimi Cox, Putnam County's March of Dimes Poster Child, and she is a victim of birth defects, the nation's major child health problem that strikes some quarter of a million infants every year. Nearly half of all chronic childhood disability results from birth defects.

By putting aside some time or money, you can contribute to a cause that will help Jaimi and will provide for birth defect research, direct patient aid, pre-natal care and public and professional education. Forty per cent of the money collected will stay locally.

The March of Dimes Walkathon is scheduled for 9 a.m. on Saturday, May 4. Greencastle and Madison Township fire departments will lead off the walk with Jaimi Cox.

The walk will begin in Roban Park and take a predetermined route to Fillmore and then return to Roban Park. It is a total of 16 miles, but walkers do not have to complete the walk. There will be five check points throughout the route where walkers will have their card punched to indicate how much of the route completed. Jaycees will provide transportation for those walkers unable to complete the walk.

Along the route will be first aid personnel at strategic locations. Dr. Alfred Page is in charge of manning the first aid stations and voluntary help will provide relief to blistered feet and skinned knees.

Also providing services to the walkers will be deputy sheriffs who will slow traffic along the walk route and assist at crossroads. At the close of the walk, there will be a party for all participants, including sandwiches, cokes and cookies. Part of the food will be donated by local merchants. F.H.A. clubs from Putnam County will assist with registration and food distribution.

Registration forms for the walk are available in all local school systems in the Greencastle area. There is no limit to the number of sponsors a walker can have, but the minimum pledge is ten cents a mile. Sponsors may donate lump sums, however. All participants under 18 years of age must have a parent or guardian sign the form.

Putnam County March of Dimes Chairman is Mr. Gail Edwards and walk chairman is Anne Robinson.

A Little Of: This And That

Florence Boatright and her husband, Bill, tell me they are very much interested in plaques at the airport and fairgrounds honoring Greencastle's World War I pilot, Maurice Sharp.

Sharpie's nephew, Charlie Jones, first broached the subject recently and I think it is a mighty good idea.

It is suggested that a plaque be placed in the airport hangar and a permanent plaque be located at the fairgrounds where Sharpie landed his plane in 1917, 57 years ago.

I am also in favor of renaming the airport the Maurice Sharp Field.

Any suggestions concerning this project will be welcome and published in this column providing the writer or writers sign their names.

Did any of you notice Ira Moore riding around town in his 1921 Overland Sunday?

It had been in the garage since last October, but the fellows at the Fire Department were kind enough to charge the car's battery.

All Ira had to do after that was pump up the right rear tire with a hand pump.

Talk about the good old days!

In passing, Jim Zeis, the younger, is in Chicago on a buying trip for Headley's Hardware. Imagine, he's in the Windy City buying future Christmas toys!

The following essays were named winners in a recent contest held for members of Cub Scout Pack 96 in Fillmore. The winners were announced at the scout meeting Saturday night.

Why I Love America

I think America is a great place to live. It is the land of the free.

We are free to live wherever we want in this country. Also we are free to worship in the church of our choice.

I am thankful for my school. Our fine teachers tell us all about the people that made this country. Also we learn of the heroes who fought to keep us free.

I am proud to be an American, and will try to do my best to keep America great.

Registration Held For Kindergarten

Parents of children who will attend kindergarten in the Cloverdale School next year are urged to complete registration of each child before the close of school on May 22. This will avoid the delay usually associated with fall registration.

Children must be five years old on or before September 1, 1974 to enter kindergarten; and are required to have a TB test and present a birth certificate at the time of registration. Immunization forms are to be completed by the parents or family doctor.

Forms needed for the TB test and immunization records may be secured from the Elementary Principal's office in the elementary building. These completed forms are needed, along with a birth certificate, at the time of registration.

Registration is done by the school nurse, Mrs. Peggy Saucerman, through the elementary principal's office. Her telephone number is 795-4339.

RSVP To Recognize Volunteers

Lapel pins and identification badges will be awarded to 40 Senior Volunteers by the Retired Senior Volunteer Program in Putnam County at a recognition tea, Thursday, April 25, 2-4 p.m. at Charterhouse.

Members of the RSVP Advisory Committee, representatives of the agencies served by volunteers, and other interested persons will attend the tea. The general public is invited to come and recognize the Senior Volunteers.

According to Suzanne Fornardo, RSVP Director, 23 Senior Volunteers who have served in the community for three months or more will receive orange lapel pins embossed with a gold "RSVP".

These Senior Volunteers are: Muriel Rockhill, Louise Knauer, Mary Faubion, Helen Jarrell, Bonnie Williams, Myrtle Costin, Gladys Silvey and Margaret Nelson.

Also Betty Pehan, Hollis Masten, Blanche Wilson, Lillian Smith, Helen Jones, Mary Lou Thomas, Helen Brown and Lena James.

Others are Roxanna Miles, Mary Buckner, Beulah Dickey, Dorothy Stickle, Marion Job, Oscar Chapman and Helen Link.

All volunteers who have been Senior Volunteers for less than three months will be given RSVP identification badges to wear while participating in a volunteer assignment.

RSVP is a nationwide program to encourage and support persons 60 years of age and older in finding and participating in volunteer opportunities. It is an effort to utilize the talents, skills and experience of the senior population and to promote recognition of the Senior Volunteer's role in the community.

In Putnam County Senior Volunteers are serving as library assistants, friendly visitors, crafts instructors, office assistants, substitute grandparents, quilt makers and teacher assistants. They also serve meals and deliver them to persons who cannot leave their homes, present programs of music or travel talks and do many other types of volunteer services to help others.

Volunteer stations, non-profit public or private agencies or organizations where Senior Volunteers may serve, presently include: Nutrition Programs in Greencastle and Cloverdale, Mental Health Association in Putnam County, Greencastle Schools, Greencastle-Putnam County Library, Red Cross, Church World Service Sewing and Volunteer Sewing Group, Cooperative Extension Service, Putnam County Learning Center, Project Concern and Putnam County Lung Unit.

"Volunteer opportunities are selected by the volunteer and assignments are made on an individual basis," says Mrs. Fornardo. "We will be happy to find an assignment for any person interested in volunteering."

Horse And Pony Team Places Fourth

Putnam County's 4-H Horse and Pony Judging team placed fourth in the recent Area Horse and Pony Judging Contest held in Spencer.

Contestants evaluated, for score, six different classes. Placings were given on four classes: Ponies, English Pleasure, Morgans, and Pintos.

Lorita Knetzer, Lisa Sutherlin, May Webb, and Sandra Webb composed the fourth placing team. Lisa Sutherlin came away with high-scoring honors for the Putnam delegation which also included Steve Jackson, Jim Jackson, Janella Edwards, Carla Edwards, John Dugger, and Terry Neese.

Judges were coached by Dorothy Edwards, Phyllis Webb, Earlene Wood, and Brenda Adams.

Any 4-H member who is interested in performing at the Share-the-Fun Contest is asked to contact their local 4-

H Leader of the County extension office for information on the event.

Share-the-Fun is a talent show including humorous skits, readings, pantomime, singers and dancers, and all compete together in two distinct categories. Any presentation that requires five or more performers is a Group Act. Those with less than five are considered Curtain Acts. Each must meet certain time requirements.

Activities Announced

The coming of May means prom time and plans were started several months ago for the dances at the three county high schools.

North Putnam High School will hold their prom Saturday, May 4, in the high school cafeteria. The dance will begin at 9 p.m. with LaVon Kemp providing the music. The theme of the prom is a secret.

Juniors and seniors from the high school can attend the semi-formal dance, according to Mrs. Shirley Steward, junior class sponsor. James Myers is the other faculty sponsor for the dance.

There will be a post-prom party at the bowling alley in Crawfordsville from 1 to 4 a.m. followed by a breakfast at the school Sunday morning.

The junior class pays for all prom activities.

Students who are working on prom activities are Suzanne McGaughey, junior class president; Lisa Porter, decorations chairman; Sara Baird, refreshment chairman; Cindy Zenor, band chairman; Rhonda Chaplain, postprom chairman; and "George" Rooker, king and queen selections chairman.

The Rose-Hulman Memorial Union will be the site of the South Putnam High School dance on May 10.

"Memories of May" will be the prom theme and light blue and dark blue will be the prom colors.

Silhouettes depicting activities that occur in May will decorate the dance along with a simulated fountain and colored lights. Balloons containing surprises will be dropped from the ceiling near the end of the dance.

The Federation of Sound will play at the dance and a post-prom party will be held from 12:30 to 4:30 a.m. at Brazilian Lanes.

A king and queen will not be selected for this year's dance.

Debbie Best and Rick Carpenter are chairmen for the prom and Mrs. Michael Rokicki and William Gardner are faculty sponsors.

The Cloverdale High School prom will be held May 11 at the DePauw University student Union from 8 to 11:30 p.m.

LaVon Kemp will also provide the music for this prom.

All students at Cloverdale High School and their dates can attend.

An after prom party sponsored by the Cloverdale Lions and the PTO will be held at a bowling alley in Plainfield.

Faculty sponsors for the dance are Mrs. Vickie Helmer and Miss Gloria Thurman.

Myers Praises House Action For Veterans

Indiana Congressman John Myers today praised action by the House Veterans' Affairs Committee approving legislation providing increases in compensation for service-connected disabled veterans. At the same time Rep. Myers expressed disappointment that the Committee again refused to provide for automatic cost-of-living increases in the future.

"This legislation has been long overdue. I hope the Congress will act swiftly so that these veterans, disabled during service to their nation, do not suffer further from the effects of the ever increasing cost of living," Rep. Myers said. The Indiana Republican was sponsor of legislation calling for the increase in compensation and the automatic cost-of-living provision.

Myers recalled that veterans' pensions for widows, dependents and those suffering from a non-service connected disability were increased by ten percent late last year. This new legislation will provide increases of 10.7 - 18 percent for those disabled while in the armed services. Their last increase came in August of 1972.

Bowen Says True Education Dogma Should Be Scrapped

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Gov. Otis R. Bowen told Indiana educators, employers and vocational education agencies Monday that they should scrap the traditional idea that "the only true education is an academic education."

He told his conference on vocational education, Project 21, "There is no doubt about the fact that the educational hierarchy is built from classical academic stepping stones...occupational education is still the 'runt puppy.'"

The governor, keynoting a program of panel discussions on job training through the rest of the 20th Century, said: "When it truly is an easy to drop back into formal education as it is to drop out, we will be well on the way to the proper development of the full educational and career potential of every American."

As candidates for the scrap heap, he proposed "intellectual snobbery...the traditional notion that education practitioners alone are the source of all wisdom as to what should be taught...the notion that education emanates from the classical physical school setting."

Bowen said the elementary and secondary public school system is the common denominator of education but "from whatever point within that system a student may leave there must be readily accessible a program of taking that man or woman from where they are to where they want to be."

The governor said the educational system must provide persons with needed skills for business and industry, re-training to meet new competitive demands and technological unemployment.

Top Court To Decide On Impounding Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court yesterday agreed to decide whether President Nixon acted within his powers in withholding $9 billion appropriated by Congress for water pollution control.

The court will review next term a Court of Appeals decision striking down the impoundment of the funds by Russell Train, administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, who acted on the President's orders.

It was the first impoundment case to be brought before the Supreme Court by the government. It turns on statutory rather than constitutional grounds.

Similar cases are pending in a number of federal courts throughout the country.

In the case presented to the high court, the impoundments were challenged by the City of New York and an organization called Campaign Clean Water.

In 1972, Congress authorized appropriations not to exceed $5 billion for fiscal 1973, $6 billion for 1974 and $7 billion for fiscal 1975 for sewage treatment grants. Train allotted $2 billion for 1973, $3 billion for 1974 and $4 billion for 1975.

In a brief filed with the court, the government said the case "has important ramifications for the power of the executive branch to coordinate and control the federal government's spending process in light of the need for economic stability and the limitations on federal resources."

"Courts have improperly cut into and endangered a discretion Congress intended the President to have," government attorneys told the court.

Lawyers for the city, however, said allotment of the full amounts would not prevent the administration from asserting its control over the actual spending of the money.

"Spending occurs long after allotments are made and is subject to review and approval of detailed submissions for individual projects," they wrote. "Whatever executive control over the rate of actual spending was intended, it can be exercised at a later stage."

DeBard Says Police Will Enforce 55mph Despite Suggestions

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A few state legislators have taken time out from the primary election campaign to suggest to State Police Sept. Robert L. DeBard that maybe 55 m.p.h. is too slow for interstate highway travel.

They didn't want to be quoted and DeBard said Monday he will make no such recommendation to the governor or legislative task force "until we have more refined statistics."

"Our position is that we will enforce the law," the superintendent said, "although we have the problem of not enough men to do it. The number of arrests doubled in March over February."

One thing officials need to know is how much a traffic death reduction of nearly 50 per cent is due to lower speeds and much of it reflects reduced traffic and shorter trips.

The volume of Hoosier traffic is picking up again after dropping 7.7 per cent in December.

9 per cent in January, 8 per cent in February and 6 per cent in March, first month the mandatory 55 m.p.h. limit was in effect.

The figures are in comparison with the same months a year ago. The decreases actually are greater because there would have been a normal increase of about 6 per cent, officials said.

E. M. "Ed" Ames, planning chief in the Highway Department's development office, drives all over the state and he expects April traffic to be back up to the 1973 level.

"We need more experience, especially in the summer months," Ames said. "Besides lower speeds, when you have 10 per cent fewer vehicles on the roads, there are going to be 10 per cent fewer conflicts."

"Driver fatigue also enters into accidents," Ames said. "There is no doubt that in December through March, trips were shorter."

Expo '74 Opens Saturday

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — Expo '74 is ready for Saturday's opening of a 184-day run.

Dedicated to "celebrating tomorrow's fresh new environment," it features exhibits of 10 foreign nations and 35 commercial and institutional sponsors. All are geared in some way to the environmental theme.

An estimated 50,000 persons will be on hand for opening day ceremonies, including President and Mrs. Nixon, Commerce Secretary Frederick Dent, and entertainer Danny Kaye.

It has been described as an example of how to make urban life work, but some critics have called it an ecological disgrace.

Alan Alda's System For Fighting Homesickness, Writing Scripts

NEW YORK (AP) — Alan Alda has a system for fighting homesickness when he's in Los Angeles filming "M-A-S-H." He writes. But because of this system he'll have to work doubly hard this summer and next fall.

He now has a second CBS series to worry about. It's "We'll Get By," a half-hour comedy show coming up in September. Alda created it, has written six scripts for it and will be its co-producer.

Alda, who lives in suburban New Jersey with his wife and three kids when "M-A-S-H" isn't shooting, was at home with them, toiling at the typewriter, when asked how he found time to write the new show.

"Well, I'm out there (Hollywood) by myself," he said. "And because my family's back here in New Jersey, I keep myself busy with work so I don't get lonely. So I'd write at night and on weekends."

The new show isn't the first TV writing he's done. The Manhattan-born actor said he'd written two "M-A-S-H" scripts that were filmed and a pilot for another proposed series ABC turned down last year. The proposed series was about New York politics, Alda said.

Was it also a comedy? "It would have to be, wouldn't it?" he asked.

"We'll Get By" has an unlikely premise for a comedy series. It's about a sales engineer, his wife and three children. Like Alda, they live in suburban New Jersey.

"There isn't anything about it that sounds like a funny idea, but I think that's one of its strong points," Alda said. "It's not a gimmick show."

"It's an attempt to show, with a sense of humor, people really living in a family. Which hasn't been done yet. There are no funny 'situations,' no cute kids with cute problems."

Alda, who is co-producing the show with Marc Merson, will supervise the script-writing. He'll head back to Los Angeles in mid-May to start production both on "M-A-S-H" and the new series.

No Permission To Female Employees

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — State Commissioner of Administration Raymond E. Sanders says he has not given permission for female state employees to attend a Republican meeting Friday.

Notices posted throughout the Statehouse and bearing Sanders' name say the women have permission to attend the meeting Friday morning.

Sanders said Monday he approved posting the notices, "but never gave anyone permission to use my name. I didn't think anything about it."

Will Cars Lead To Thieves?

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Irish detectives followed a trail of stolen cars today hoping it will lead them to the gang that seized more than $20 million worth of paintings.

Three cars were involved in the trail which stretched across Ireland from coast to coast.

The first auto was stolen in the west coast port of Galway on Thursday, the day before the four men and a woman burst into the Blessington mansion of diamond millionaire Sir Alfred Beit and stole 19 of his paintings, including a Vermeer, a Goya and three Rubens.

This car was found abandoned 50 miles south of Ennis, in County Clare.

A second car, stolen in Ennis, was driven 130 miles across the country to Gorey in County Wexford, where it too was abandoned.

Police theorize the thieves could then have made their way 10 miles north to the east coast city of Arklow in County Wicklow. This is where a silver-gray sedan used in the raid on Sir Alfred's Russborough House at Blessington, near Dublin, was stolen.

This third car was found abandoned near Cashel in County Tipperary 24 hours after the Friday night raid. Police fingerprint and forensic experts were still examining the car Monday.

Police were also examining virtually every inch of roadway and field around the abandoned cars in their search for clues.

Sally Eppelheimer Married April 6

Miss Sally Kay Eppelheimer became the bride of Paul Alexander on Saturday, April 6 in an afternoon ceremony at the Presbyterian Church in Greencastle.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Eppelheimer of 510 Crown St., Greencastle. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Alexander of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Rev. Thomas E. Heinlein conducted the ceremony. A string ensemble composed of Catherine Steele and Nancy Wright on the violin, John Fitzpatrick on the viola and Ken Myers on the cello, played two selections, "Menuetto" and "Gavota". John Fitzpatrick sang "The Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer". The processional was "Trumpet-Tune" by Clarke-Purcell. Mrs. Jeanne Fitzpatrick was the organist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a floor length gown of white crystalite with a Venise lace bodice, a square neckline and Juliet sleeves with wide Venise lace cuffs. Her gown had a long chapel train with a wide flounce trimmed in Venise lace. A three tiered shoulder length illusion veil trimmed with Venise lace, attached to a Venise lace Camelot cap. White carnations and stephanotis made up her bridal bouquet.

The mother of the bride wore a slate blue double knit A-Line floor length gown with matching coat. She carried a corsage of blue-tinted daisies and mums.

The mother of the groom wore a mint green princess style knit with a scoop neckline and long sleeves. She wore a corsage of green-tinted daisies and mums.

Miss Peggy Eppelheimer, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor and Ginny Alexander, sister of the groom, was the bridesmaid. They wore identical long shirt waist styled gowns of lime green and white flowered taffeta. White picture hats trimmed in lime green ribbon accented the gowns. They carried bouquets of daisies mums and green-tinted carnations.

David Manning of Troy, Ohio, was best man. Groomsmen were Steve Marsh of Cincinnati, Devin McConnell of Toledo and Randy Morse of Columbus, Ohio.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Elks Club in Greencastle. An all-white four tiered wedding cake was centered on a table with flowered candelabras on each side. The cake was decorated with Natural flowers of green-tinted daisies and carnations. Punch flowed through a lighted fountain centered on a table filled with hors d'oeuvres. A wedding buffet was served from another table. Guest tables were decorated with green-tinted carnations. The Millstones, a local musical group, played during the reception for the 150 guests.

Mrs. Jan Manning registered the guests. Assisting during the reception were Mrs. Marilyn Jackson, Mrs. Nancy Wright, Mrs. Ruth Webb and Mrs. Linda Kohlmeier.

The bride is a graduate of Greencastle High School and received her B.A. in business administration from Wittenberg University, Springfield, Ohio. Her sorority is Alpha Delta Pi. She is employed by Mead Containers, Cincinnati, as a purchasing agent.

The bridegroom graduated cum laude with a B.A. degree in mathematics from Wittenberg University. He is a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity. He is employed by Sycamore School District, Cincinnati.

Following a wedding trip to Jamaica, the couple will reside at 3928 Beech St., Cincinnati.

Young mother really is husband's sister

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Ten years ago, when I married Peter, we were both 30 years old. I recall that when he introduced me to his mother, I said: "My, what a young-looking mother you have!" [That's what everybody says when they first meet her. She looks about Peter's age.]

After being in this family for ten years, I learned accidentally that Peter's "mother" is not his mother at all. She is his sister! He calls her "Mom." She is only 14 years older than Peter. His real mother died when he was an infant, and his sister raised him after she got married. [Peter was two and she was 16.] Why everyone keeps this a big secret is beyond me. It also bugs me because I'm sure everyone wonders how come Peter has such a young-looking mother and such an old-looking wife.

It would make me feel a lot better if their real relationship were to come out. Would it be wrong for me to spill the beans?

PETER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Yes. If Peter and his family prefer to keep it a secret, keep quiet. "Mom" may not be Peter's biological mother, but she's the only mother he has ever known, and if it gives him [and her] pleasure to perpetuate the illusion, don't destroy it.

DEAR ABBY: I am having a difference of opinion with my mother. I just started dating and my mother says that when my date comes to pick me up I should be "upstairs, dressing," and keep him waiting about ten minutes.

I think that when my date rings the doorbell I should be the one to answer it. My mom says that if I do, it will make me look too eager. What do you say?

CANDI

DEAR CANDI: I say that at the sound of the bell, come out smiling. I once knew a girl who kept her date waiting half an hour every time he came to pick her up because she didn't want to appear too eager. She'd send her kid sister to answer the door and entertain her date while he waited. [P. S. He married the kid sister.]

DEAR ABBY: I have a pet peeve I have never seen aired in your column. It's women who wear heavy charm bracelets that go "jingle jangle, clunkety clunk" in church.

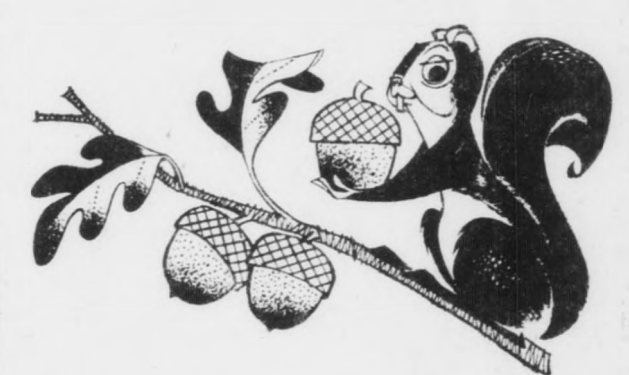

This friend of mine always wears a bracelet like that, and she insists on saving me a seat in church beside her. She always picks two seats way down in the front and in the middle. Every time she moves her hand, those charm bracelets make a dreadful racket, which is annoying to those sitting near us and embarrassing to me. [I've even seen the organist turn around and give her a dirty look between hymns.]

What is wrong with people like my friend? Don't they know any better? Or don't they care? And how can I tell her without hurting her feelings? She doesn't take criticism very well.

LIKES CHURCH—HATES BRACELETS

DEAR LIKES: If your friend isn't aware that her bracelets are a source of annoyance to you and others, do the friendly thing and tell her. Then, if she doesn't leave the hardware at home, find another seat as far from her as possible.

In-The-Water Instruction Slated For Heritage Club

Making plans to sponsor a "Family Night Water Safety Program" are the members of the Heritage Heartland Extension Homemaker Club. Slated for June 12, the program will feature in-the-water instruction by Dr. Alfred Page, a Greencastle chiropractor. The program will begin at 6:30 p.m. so that area youngsters may benefit from the demonstration on mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. All Heritage Lake residents are urged to participate.

The club's April meeting, co-hosted by Pat Games and Rosemarie Kief, featured a demonstration of German cooking led by Marilyn Choate and a discussion of flower gardening conducted by Louise Martin. Pitch-in salads prepared by the members complemented the dinner meeting.

Health and Safety Director Barbara Simon talked on the value of international road signs and advised members on the availability of bicycle safety flags.

Summer plans for the homemakers group include a May program planning session, a June presentation on "Desserts with Design," a July family picnic and an August sewing demonstration.

Opening lead - ten of spades.

Let's assume you're in three notrump and West leads the ten of spades. When you follow low from dummy, East signals with the eight and you win the trick with the king. You have eight winning tricks and the big question is what to do at trick two, remembering of course that you see only the North-South cards.

Two methods of play are worthy of consideration. One is to lead the king or queen of hearts, discarding a diamond from dummy, and the other is to lead the nine or jack of diamonds, planning to finesse.

The fact is that one of these plays is clearly correct and the other is clearly wrong. All the same, it is perfectly possible to make the wrong play, which is to lead a diamond instead of a heart at trick two.

The superficial attraction of leading a diamond is that you plan to finesse into the non-dangerous hand, East, who cannot advantageously return a spade. This reasoning is fallacious, as is demonstrated when West plays the queen of diamonds at trick two and knocks you right out of the box. As the cards lie, you are doomed, whatever you do next.

The correct view is that the contract cannot be made against proper defense unless East has the ace of hearts. The diamond setup is a snare and a delusion.

A diamond play at trick two contributes nothing of value to making the contract. Even if the diamonds are favorably placed, the contract will still be defeated with proper defense if West has the ace of hearts.

Leading the king or queen of hearts offers a much better chance for the contract and, in the actual case, settles the issue when it turns out that East has the ace.

High Achievement To Engineers Is A Stench To Residents

LEWISTOWN, Ill. (AP)—What's high achievement to the American Society of Civil Engineers is high stench to some residents of Fulton County.

On one hand, the engineers say a plan to reclaim strip-mined land with sewage is a major accomplishment; on the other, the residents of the county where the sewage is dumped aren't sure.

Since 1971, 160,000 tons of treated sewage has been shipped each year from the Chicago Metropolitan Sanitary District to Fulton County, a sparsely populated area 150 miles southwest of Chicago.

The transfer of the sludge—liquid fertilizer, the district calls it—is part of a plan to reclaim 11,000 acres of sterile, abandoned strip mines purchased by the district.

The engineering society announced Tuesday that the Fulton County project is the premier example of civil engineering in the nation for 1974.

The society said the Fulton County project "is an implementation of the philosophy that pollution is a resource out of place; a costly and damaging disposal problem becomes an opportunity to return to full agriculture production strip mine soil in northern and central Illinois."

But Fulton County Clerk Emil Sepich announced Tuesday that a sufficient number of petition signatures have been gathered to hold a November advisory referendum on whether the county should try to halt the project.

And Burrel Barash, an attorney representing Fulton County Citizens for Better Health and Environment, commented, "They (the engineers) don't live in Fulton County. And Fulton County is where the smell is . . . The engineers from Washington to California don't live near the sludge."

A group of county residents and citizens groups has already sued Fulton County and the sanitary district in an effort to stop the project.

The suit, seeking $1 million in damages, says residents "have been made ill by vile odors and their premises have been rendered unfit for habitation and use."

The sludge, amounting to 5 to 10 per cent of the sewage produced by the district, is sent by river barge to Fulton County and then sprayed on the barren soil of the old strip mines.

Of the 11,000 acres owned by the district, 1,500 have been reclaimed and will be planted in corn and soybeans. Another 1,000 acres are scheduled for reclamation in the coming year. District engineers contend the sludge is harmless and causes no odor problem.

A Boston meteorologist has pointed out that heavy snowstorms east of the Rocky Mountains are associated with sunspots.

Elderly Receives Needed Check-Ups

WAUKON, Iowa (AP)—For $1 apiece, some elderly residents of this northeast Iowa farming community may have prolonged their life.

For that paltry sum, more than 200 residents have received complete physical examinations, some of which detected unsuspected ailments.

"So often the doctors and I noticed that a lot of older people are still coming to the hospital in very deplorable physical condition," said the Rev. Arlin Adams, explaining the reason for the low-cost checkups.

"We saw that they had waited too long, and when they came for health care it was too late."

Pastor Adams, a Lutheran and former administrator of the 42-bed, city-owned Veterans Memorial Hospital, helped establish the program in this community of 4,000.

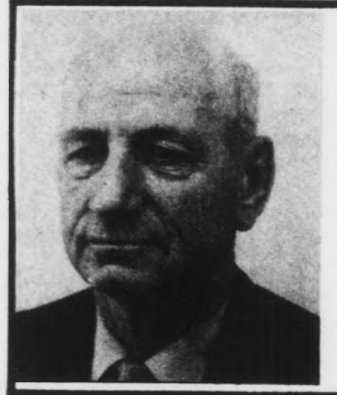

The examinations at the hospital were made possible through "Operation: Health Saving," which combined the town's medical and volunteer resources.

Donald Dunn, executive vice president of the Iowa Hospital Association, said Monday the program "points up the basic weakness of the Medicare and Medicaid health insurance for the elderly."

For the same diagnostic services given in Waukon for $1, Medicare patients elsewhere must pay the first $84 of the total charge, he said.

"It doesn't sound like much, but to an aged person on a limited income, it's an appreciable barrier to obtain the health care they need," Dunn said.

Have Their Own Barber

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Andrea Weiner, draped from shoulders to sneakers in a brown gingham cape, is in the chair having her hair styled for a trip to Mexico. Her mother sitting nearby explained that Andrea's problem is baby fine hair.

No surprise, since Andrea is only nine years old.

It's Tipperary, a beauty salon where baby fine hair is the norm, where it's not unusual for haircuts to be styled around excised bubblegum gaps, where stylists are trained to cut squirming, if not moving targets, and work around faces hidden in comic books.

Andrea, daughter of an insurance executive, goes to Tipperary only three times a year, but many kids in this affluent southern California community have standing appointments.

The shop is owned and managed by Jack King, a 35-year-old London native, who said he became aware of the need for a children's salon while he was working as a stylist at a Beverly Hills women's shop. Mothers would bring in their children but no hairdresser was anxious to cut their hair. They were charged full price — sometimes more at other salons — and generally felt out of place in a room full of women in curlers and pastel smocks.

"This is a very affluent community," said King. "If six-year-olds could drive they would have cars. They have everything."

Unlike adult shops where hair is swept out by the bushels, fallen curls receive loving care. For a first haircut, a Polaroid picture is taken and a strand tied in ribbon is placed in a small envelope marked "Precious locks." Sometimes grandparents come in with movie cameras to film the event.

Children can be given gift certificates to the salon and each child gets a small toy when leaving. The salon is decorated from floor to ceiling in cute, kiddie decor — murals, animal mobiles, balloons. A sign declares that through Tipperary's portals pass the world's most beautiful children. In large canisters are animal crackers and lollipops.

Games, typewriters and dolls abound and there are two pinball and Pachinko machines. The lemon yellow barber chairs are scaled down to children's size and have seat belts for infant. Instead of women's fashion magazines, the kids have Jack and Jill, Seventeen and Ingenue, among others.

As King talked, 8-year-old Jill Levy entered the shop leading her father by the hand. "I think the whole school goes here," said Bert Levy, a retired textile manufacturer, as his daughter headed for the pinball machines. "The kids love it. I think a barber shop can be very terrifying for a kid."

A shampoo is $2.50, a cut $5. King said the kids are good tipsters, though one little girl got confused and gave the money to a parent.

The shop also has manicures, pedicures, permanent waves and hair straightening but not facials — "Most kids have beautiful skin," said King — or hair coloring, though some kids have had their hair dyed by their mothers.

Lacking rigidity, different parts of the sun spin at various speeds. Scientists believe the turbulence thus generated forces giant twisting loops of electrified gas to break through the surface, forming sunspots.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Cora and her dedicated young mothers desired to be "active" (not "passive") child psychologists. Which means you must do more than merely nod assent when you see the surefire prescriptions outlined in this column. Get into constructive action!

CASE A-620: Cora Kerr, of Findlay, Ohio, was president of the Ohio Child Conservation League.

She invited me to address its annual convention in Toledo.

At 10 A.M., I spent an hour with 300 of these attractive young mothers, handling a "Workshop on Child Rearing."

But my main address was for the banquet session, attended by 800 unusually beautiful young mothers, each attired in a distinctive evening gown.

"Ladies," I began, "I wish you had taken a movie of your procession into this banquet hall."

"For children enjoy realizing that their mothers are pretty and dressed in stylish gowns."

"Besides, most of you are only in the 25 to 35 age bracket, so it would be a revelation to your children to see what beautiful women are dedicated to child conservation in your Buckeye State."

And that was no flattery, for except at dental conventions, I have never seen such a large group of women who rated so high in feminine pulchritude.

Perhaps the reason dental surgeons routinely pick charming wives, is the fact they are trained to focus on pretty teeth.

And sparkling white teeth are the major cosmetic charm of every beautiful woman!

In the morning Workshop, here are three of the typical queries:

(1) "Dr. Crane, what can we do to lessen the constant arguments among our children?"

Don't stop them! For youngsters whet their wits on each other, thus boosting their I.Q.

And I reminded these young mothers that Dr. William James, our greatest American psychologist, said the reason he and his siblings were so outstanding, was the fact:

"Father encouraged us to argue and debate, even at the dinner table."

"So when one of us made a positive statement, the others forced him to defend his stand."

"Thus, we whetted our wits on each other's."

(2) "Dr. Crane, why does a child suck his thumb chiefly at bedtime or when he is upset?"

Because that is a form of natural tranquilizer.

It resurrects the happy, relaxing mood linked with his bottle and Mother's good-night kiss.

Besides, many babies, even under 9 months of age, have peptic ulcers!

And the act of sucking on his thumb generates more saliva, which dilutes the acid in his stomach as he keeps swallowing it.

Give such a tense child a bedfellow in the form of a woolly lamb or cloth puppy, and he will occupy his hands with fondling them and thus feel more reassured.

As his hands are thus involved above the covers, he is less likely to accidentally hit upon masturbation.

(3) "Dr. Crane, how can a shy, sensitive child win friends?"

Launch your entire family on my "Compliment Club" project.

Have a reporting session each night at the dinner table, for this will extrovert the shy person's attention from himself and make him a social detective, looking for merits in his companions.

When he then phrases a sincere compliment, his comrades will begin to like him and soon he will generate many friendships.

Solving child problems will be much easier if you parents will place these practical solutions from this column, into effect.

So send for my 200-point "Tests for Good Parents," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

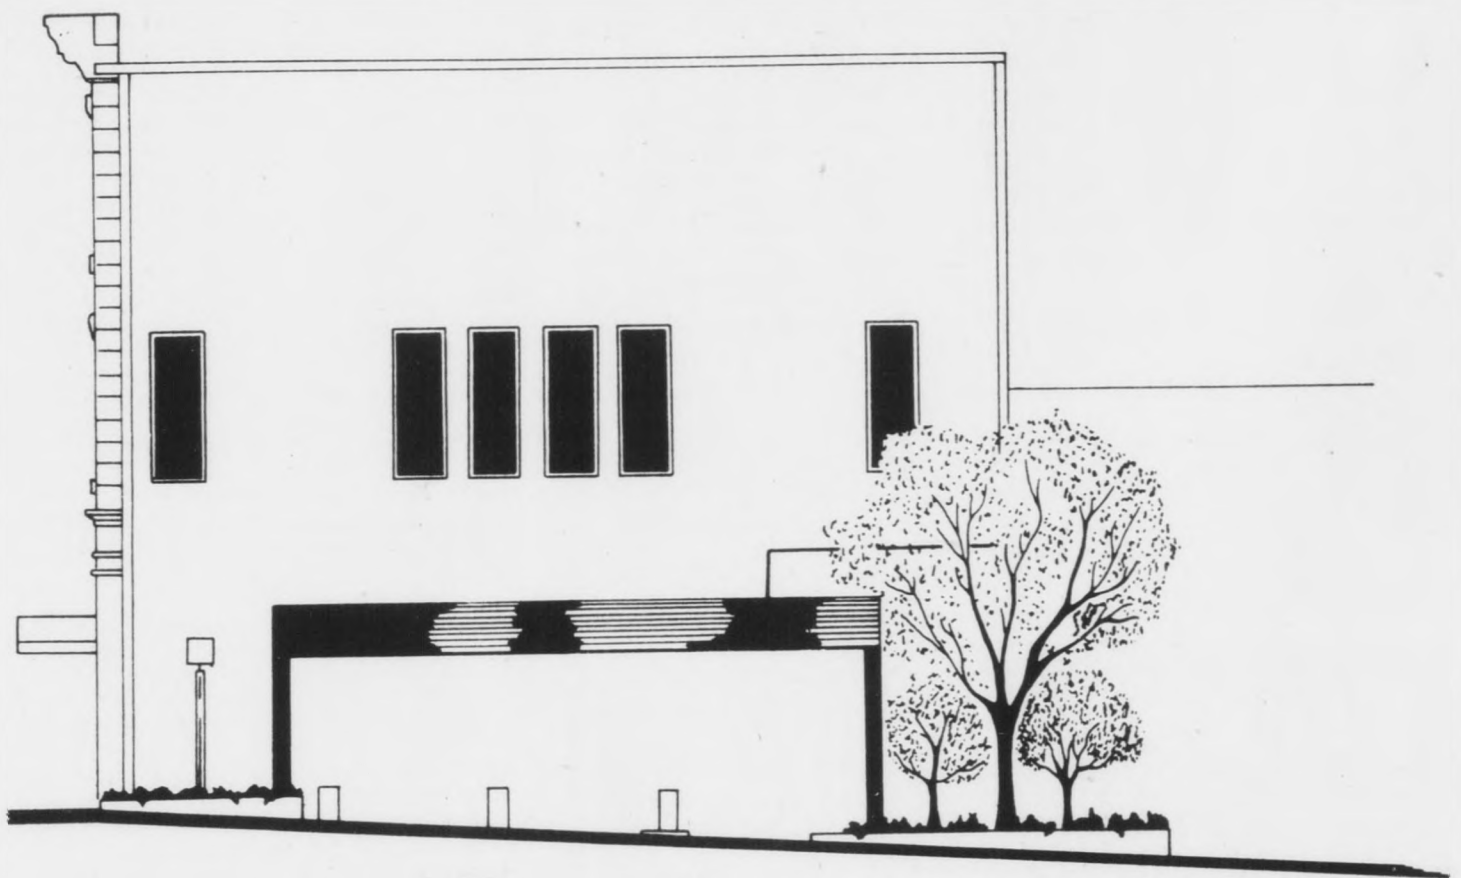

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

SCHICK HIRED

The Boxer vs. The Slugger Round Two Tonight

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Coach Tom Heinsohn compared his Boston Celtics' playoff series against the Milwaukee Bucks to a prize fight, a classic match of boxer vs. slugger.

"We're the light heavyweight and they're the heavyweight," Heinsohn said Monday. "No way a heavyweight like Sonny Liston is going to catch us and hit us. We dance around, like Sugar Ray Robinson, and they've got to catch us. That's what it amounts to."

The Celtics, fast breaking on offense and employing a full court press on defense, wore down the Bucks 98-83 Sunday for a 1-0 lead in the National Basketball Association championship series. Heinsohn said the Celtics intend to maintain their pressure tactics in the second game in the best-of-seven series Tuesday night.

"We know the Bucks are a great basketball team and it's going to be a very tough series," he said. "But we've shown we're capable of playing our style. They still have to establish they can play their style, which is a slowdown."

"Obviously, they'll try to do something about our press," he added. "I'm sure they'll make some changes. But I'll tell you something. I looked at the films this morning, and I think we can press even better."

The Bucks' 83 points were their third lowest total of the season and their lowest ever in a playoff game.

"There's no question the pressure affected us, but we beat ourselves," said Bucks' Coach Larry Costello. "We gave them too many uncontested shots. But we feel we have people we can win with. If we can just get the ball up and run our offense, we'll be in good shape."

Costello declined to say what adjustments he planned, but admitted that forwards Bob Dandridge or Mickey Davis might see some duty at guard.

Sunday, the Celtics centered their pressure on Oscar Robertson and eventually tired the 35-year-old playmaker, who had to play all but two minutes because a pulled calf muscle sidelined reserve guard Jon McGlocklin in the second quarter.

McGlocklin will not play Tuesday and his availability later in the series is in doubt. The Bucks' fastest guard, Lucius Allen, had knee surgery March 16 and is out of the playoffs.

"I don't know whether Oscar can play 46 minutes again or not, but he'll have to," Costello said.

Robertson scored only two baskets, one a tip-in, on 13 shots. Costello attributed Robertson's poor showing to weariness.

"I think as you get older, you use all your strength bringing the ball up the floor and it affects your shooting," he said. "But we've got to get the ball up faster. We did too much dribbling. That's what can make you tired."

Wants Urine Tests For All NFL Players

SAN DIEGO (AP)—The owner of the San Diego Chargers, the first National Football League team fined for use of drugs, proposed Monday that every NFL player be given immediate and routine urine tests.

Such action "is necessary for the survival of professional football," owner Eugene Klein said. If evidence of drugs is found, "my recommendation is immediate suspension—no ifs, ands or buts," Klein said in a speech to sports writers and broadcasters.

The NFL Players' Association has opposed urinalysis. Klein said if that group continues to oppose it, Congress ought to pass a law making drug-testing mandatory.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle announced last Friday that Chargers' General Manager Harland Svare and eight players had been fined a total of $40,000.

In addition, Svare and the players were placed on probation for what Rozelle called drug-related offenses during the 1973 season and preceding training camp. Svare said later the drug was marijuana.

The Longest Streak Ended 35 Years Ago

NEW YORK (AP)—Exactly 35 years ago, Lou Gehrig played the last of his 2,130 consecutive games for the New York Yankees. The streak is considered perhaps baseball's most unapproachable mark.

On May 2, 1939, Gehrig took himself out of the Yankee lineup and left the sports world wondering what was wrong with the iron man who had not missed a game since June 2, 1925.

But according to his widow, Mrs. Eleanor Gehrig, the string was soon to be ended anyway.

"When we were married in 1933," recalled Mrs. Gehrig in an interview, "we made a pact that Lou would get out when he was 35 years old."

"That way he could go out in a blaze of glory. He never wanted to be dragged down in the sticks and he would never be traded. He was proud that beside every year in the record book (next to his name), there was a New York written next to it."

"Ironically, it was when he was 35 years old, that his disease was diagnosed."

It was the encroachment of a disease called amyotrophic lateral sclerosis that hastened Gehrig's departure from baseball in 1939 and caused his death two years later.

"In 1938, Lou had batted .295 which was a terrible year for him," remembered Mrs. Gehrig. "And then in the winter he had what were diagnosed as gall bladder problems. It was the first time anything like that had happened to him. He was always the picture of health."

"Even before he went to spring training in 1939, there were signs that there was something wrong. Lou would miss a curb, and he would turn and look at me quizzically as if to say, 'now why did I do that?' But he was completely sold on the gall bladder deal."

"I was beginning to think that it might be a brain tumor. But neither of us wanted to bring it up because it might frighten the other."

Gehrig's problems got worse during spring training, and as the season began, he was hitting .143 when he asked to be taken out of the lineup.

"We were up all night talking about it after the game in New York April 30," said Mrs. Gehrig, now 69 years old. "I remember, we talked about the pact we made when we got married."

"Lou realized that McCarthy (Joe McCarthy, the Yankees' manager) was in a terrible spot. He was just sick about the whole thing and couldn't bring himself to take Lou out. It was something Lou had to do and he did."

The record had gone unnoticed through its early stages, and it was a source of amazement to the muscular first baseman that anyone should notice that kind of thing at all.

"As a matter of fact, on the day we got married, he played after the ceremony."

"With Lou, baseball was never a hardship. It was something that you got up in the morning and you looked forward to."

"If it had become a hardship, I would have called a halt to the whole thing. And I was just stubborn enough to do it."

Wildcats To Big 10 Top

By The Associated Press
Northwestern's Wildcats enjoyed a four-game sweep over the weekend and stormed into a first place tie in the Big Ten baseball race.

The Wildcats took a pair from Purdue Friday and then came back with 6-2 and 6-5 victories over Illinois Saturday to boost their record to 7-3.

The four victories were good enough to boost the Wildcats into a first place tie with the Iowa Hawkeyes. Iowa took a pair from Indiana Friday and then split shutout victories with Ohio State Saturday.

Iowa defeated Ohio State 5-0 in the first game Saturday behind the three-hit pitching of Mark Ewell but Ohio State came back to win the nightcap 1-0 behind the four-hit pitching of Russ Pensiero as Barry Bonnell hit a home run for the game's only score.

Indiana split a pair with Minnesota's defending champions Saturday. The Hoosiers won the opener 9-8 but dropped the nightcap 7-4.

Wisconsin defeated Purdue 8-1 but lost the second game 9-8 while Michigan State took a pair of nonconference decisions from Detroit 5-4 and 8-5. Michigan battled Eastern Michigan to a nonconference 3-3 tie Sunday. The game was called after five innings because of rain.

Northwestern's Marty Lenhof belted out three hits and knocked in three runs as Jou Jungheim scattered six hits to win the opener. The Wildcats then came from behind with two runs in the seventh inning to take the nightcap. Mitch Nelson ignited the winning rally with a double.

The Indiana-Minnesota split was highlighted by a total of nine home runs. Ken St. Pierre hit a pair for the Hoosiers in the opener and his second blast came in the bottom of the seventh to snap an 8-8 tie to provide the Hoosiers with their victory.

Mike Fitzenberger homered for Minnesota in each game while Dale Thake hit a pair for the Hoosiers in the second game. However, Jeff Hagen provided the power for the Gophers in the second game as he drove in four runs with a single and a two-run homer.

Scott Mackey tossed a six-hitter in Wisconsin's triumph over Purdue but the Boilermakers took the nightcap as Jim Szucs, John Wezet and Gary Mazza each drove in two runs. They offset the slugging of Dwight Mueller who hit a three-run homer for the Badgers.

Northwestern and Iowa will knock heads Friday when they meet in a doubleheader at Iowa City while Wisconsin plays twice at Minnesota. In nonconference games Friday, Illinois College will be at Illinois and Ohio State goes to Cincinnati.

Saturday's schedule finds Northwestern at Minnesota for a pair and Wisconsin at Iowa for two games. Michigan State will be at Michigan for a single game while Ohio State plays two more nonconference games at Cincinnati and Indiana goes to Indiana State for a pair.

The weekend action spills over into Sunday with Michigan at Michigan State for a single game and Purdue at Illinois for a pair.

Glovemen Turn Stickmen

Card Reitz

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Slick-fielding Ken Reitz of the St. Louis Cardinals has cut down on his swing this season, and as a result, is the major league's leading batter.

The fiery third baseman, prone a year ago to swing for the fences, is spraying mostly singles and doubles this season, and is the hottest hitter in the majors.

"I just try to hit the ball hard," the 22-year-old Reitz said Sunday after boosting his batting average to .425 on 34 hits in 80 at-bats.

"I can't really say that my swing is any different," he added. "It's just that I'm not swinging as hard."

While hitting safely in 16 of the Cards' 21 games, Reitz currently is on a rampage, smacking 13 hits in his last 21 appearances for a .619 mark.

But things have not always gone so well for the former California schoolboy wrestler and football player who was platooned at third in 1973.

Considered a bright rookie prospect, he faced mostly left-handed pitching and hit only .235 in 147 games.

"I realized that if I wanted to play every day I had to do things differently," said Reitz, who applied tape to his bat handle and began raising his grip.

"It gives you just that little bit more control," he said. "Without it you might ground out or pop up when you're fooled by the pitch."

A large part of Reitz' early success has been his ability to hit to right field.

"I always wanted to hit the other way," Reitz said, "but it's not something you can practice ahead of a game and do. I had to think about it."

"Home runs are not my bag," conceded the 175-pound Reitz, who has only one homer this season and believes power "comes with experience."

and 'Mirrors' Grich

BALTIMORE (AP)—After a story book performance in the field last season, Bobby Grich resorted to a game of "mirror, mirror" during the winter in an effort to improve his hitting.

Swinging a weighted bat for 15 minutes at a clip, the Baltimore Orioles' second baseman stood in front of his bedroom mirror swinging at an imaginary baseball while practicing a new batting stance.

"I did that about four or five times a week, starting in December," Grich said. "When I got to spring training, the ball was jumping off the bat, so I stayed with it."

Now, 18 games into the 1974 season, Grich leads the Orioles with a .354 average, three homers, six doubles, 23 hits and 14 runs scored, and is second with nine runs batted in.

Grich tinkered a bit with the new stance late last season, but it was an on-and-off thing.

While setting a major league fielding record by making only five errors in 945 chances, his batting average dipped to .251 or 27 points below his first full major league season in 1972.

Grich, a right-handed batter, stood well off the plate last year and crouched over while batting from a closed stance—meaning his left foot was the closest to the plate. He also choked up on the bat about three or four inches.

"It was almost as if was trying to protect the plate for an outside pitch," said Coach Jim Frey. "He developed an inside-outside stroke to right field, and seemed to approach hitting with a defensive attitude."

Halfway through the 1973 season, when Grich was hitting only .229, Frey began discussing a possible change. Grich would try the new stance for a while, but then revert when he felt uncomfortable.

This year, the change has been permanent. Grich has moved closer to the plate, uses a wider stance with his feet further apart, and has straightened up.

HOUK AMONG ELITE
DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Tigers point out that only 38 managers in modern baseball history have lasted 10 seasons or more. One of them is Ralph Houk, their new pilot who has managed the Yankees for 11 seasons.

Twenty-five of the 38 managers of 10 years' experience had winning records. Houk is 14th on the list with 944 wins against 806 defeats.

Former Yankee manager Joe McCarthy heads the list. In 24 seasons with the Cubs, Yankees and Red Sox, McCarthy had a 2,126-1,335 record.

Percentage-wise, McCarthy is followed by Billy Southworth, Frank Chance, John McGraw and Al Lopez.

Clovers Have Good Weekend On Baseball Diamond

Cloverdale's baseball team won two and lost one over the weekend, edging Monrovia in a 1-0 pitchers' dual Friday and then splitting a double-header with Southmont Saturday, dropping the opener, 7-4, and coming back to take the nightcap, 6-4.

Jerry Chestnut and Kelly Bailey combined for Friday's shutout, Chestnut giving up two hits in the six innings he worked while striking out seven, and Bailey allowing a triple and a walk before striking out the side in the seventh.

The Clovers scored the game's only run when Randy Barron led off the fifth inning with his second hit of the day, stole second, and came home two outs later on Ed Cummings' double over third base.

Cummings, who had been in a hitting slump prior to the weekend, knocked three more hits in Saturday's doubleheader, one of them an RBI single in the first inning of game two that followed Barron's 2 RBI double and staked the Clovers to a 3-0 lead.

"I'm super pleased that we got off to a start," said Clover coach Ken Williams, who then watched Southmont tie the game in the third and again in the sixth after his team had forged to the lead once more.

"I'm happy that we were able to play in a close game without buckling."

And play the Clovers did, as Bailey drove a double in the seventh that brought in Chestnut with the eventual winning run, and Rick Anderson scampered home with the insurance marker on Barron's groundout.

Bailey went all the way on the hill for Cloverdale in the first game, striking out seven and walking four. Chestnut contributed a two run double in the second that brought the Clovers back into a 4-0 game, but Southmont broke out with three in the fifth to sew it up.

"We couldn't get a break to save our life," moaned Williams in reference to the diving and shoestring catches the Mounties made to rob Clovers of hits, one of which resulted in an unconscious outfielder who still held onto the ball for the out.

The Clovers are now 4-6, and in the words of their coach "ready to go" as they visited North Putnam last night.

Coleman, Scobee Key Eagle Win

Pinch hitter Jim Coleman broke open a close game with a bases loaded, two out single in the sixth inning and John Scobee threw a complete game five hitter to lead South Putnam to a 7-2 win at Avon last Thursday.

Coleman's single to right field brought in two runs, and the Eagles added another before the side was out to extend their lead to 5-1 before scoring twice more in their last at bats and then yielding one Oriole marker in the bottom of the seventh.

Scobee recorded seven strikeouts in his second appearance in two afternoons, as he had thrown a pair of frames against Edgewood Wednesday.

Gordon Knetzer headed the Eagles' nine hit offense with a triple and two singles in four trips to the plate, while Dale Mendenhall chipped in with a pair of singles.

The win brought the Eagles' record to 2-5 as they went into last night's game with Monrovia.

Cubs Blasted By Terre Haute South

Although Greencastle's Cubs outhit Terre Haute South 13-11 Friday afternoon in Terre Haute, the hosts put together a pair of seven run innings to blast to a 16-9 victory.

After the Cubs had pushed across two runs in the top of the second to wipe out a 1-0 South lead, the Braves exploded in the bottom of the frame for their first seven run outburst, which they repeated two innings later to wrap up the decision.

Cub coach Jim Peck characterized the game by its loose defense, where 11 errors were committed by the two teams.

Leading Greencastle's attack were Kim Jones and Stacy Spencer with a triple and single apiece, Randy Jones with a double and single, and Robert Plessinger with a pair of singles.

Bill Earl took the loss, with Kent Frazier coming to his relief with three innings of no run ball.

The Cubs are now 3-3 on the year, and will next see action when they host another power, Terre Haute North, Friday afternoon.

Stop strangling your Dryer

...and save energy and money. A clogged lint filter will make your dryer use a lot more electricity by lengthening drying time. Keep the filter clean so your dryer can "breathe." Clothes will dry much faster with less electricity.

Use permanent press and fluff cycles for synthetic fabrics. These cycles use warm or "air only" setting rather than "hot," saving both energy and money.

Many more energy-saving ideas are available at your nearest Public Service Indiana office. When you use electricity wisely, you get more for your money.

Temperament To Training Methods

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — A dog may be man's best friend, but the adage does not always apply in reverse, believes dog trainer Matthew Margolis, who thinks man is often less than a friend to his pet when it comes to training.

"Owners too often take the negative rather than the positive approach," explains the young president of the National Institute of Dog Training. "I'm against punishment, which is not teaching. No one learns by being frightened; no one likes to be chewed out, screamed at, humiliated, frowned on or physically hurt."

What he is for is "command, correction, praise," teaching the dog what to do through kindness and firmness, and showering the animal with love and affection when he responds.

"I'm for getting into your dog's head and understanding what he's about, what he needs and how to supply it," Margolis adds. "Since you may have him for 15 years it's worth the investment of time and trouble to learn to communicate."

Margolis, who has trained some 8,000 dogs during the past 10 years, has found that different techniques are required for mixed breeds and for purebreds. Now he and Mordecai Siegal have written a book on the subject called "Underdog: Training the Mutt, Mongrel and Mixed Breed at Home."

Every pure breed has predictable temperament characteristics that let you know what you're up against in the training process, they point out. But for a mongrel you have to evaluate that particular dog's temperament first.

"You have to train a shy dog differently from an aggressive dog," Margolis notes. So, first of all, he advocates conducting a temperament test he has devised to determine if the pet is shy, nervous, stubborn, sedate, aggressive or responsive.

"Observe the dog," he advises. "Does he jump around the house playfully, run up on people, seem to like everybody, find the world full of fun and joy? Or does he run under a chair, run away if you start to pet him; if you drop your keys on the rug does he investigate or slink away?"

If it turns out you have a shy dog, for instance, with enough love, kindness and education you can bring out his confidence, Margolis promises. "If you're dealing with a shy dog never say the word no in a loud voice, never jerk hard on the leash. Meet him eye-to-eye on his level and love him to death. Make him feel so secure that he'll be the happiest dog in the world."

Margolis insists you can teach an old dog new tricks, having once housebroken a 10-year-old, but for best results he thinks training should start when the puppy is seven weeks old. And, he insists, training should be done not in a kennel but in the home, where the problems arise and where they should be solved.

A properly trained dog, he says, should be housebroken or paper trained, should walk properly on a leash, sit, stay, heel, come when called and lie down. He should not jump on people, chew furniture or jump on it, beg, take food from the table, nip, dig in the yard, jump over the fence or chase cars.

"I don't believe in training by the use of food," Margolis adds. "You don't want to walk around with treats all the time. And the day you run out of treats is the day your dog wouldn't respond."

Margolis has always loved dogs and has owned 10 during his 32 years. He and his wife now have two — Silver, a weimaraner, and Princess, a maltese.

MORE WORKSHOPS FOR RETARDED

TORONTO (AP) — Impressed by the programs operated by five workshops in Toronto where 450 mentally retarded persons are employed under the auspices of Arc Industries, the Canadian Association for the Mentally Retarded plans to launch an appeal campaign here in May and collect $3 million to establish more facilities such as Arc throughout the country. There are 650,000 persons in Canada classified as mentally retarded.

SAFETY IMPROVED

TORONTO (AP) — The Metro Toronto and Region Conservation Authority is to enforce stricter safety precautions in its parks and other properties where 21 persons have drowned since 1957. Warning signs, safety barriers and more lifesaving poles along unsupervised reservoirs and shorelines are among safety features to be introduced this year.

Jurors Believed They Were Telling Truth

NEW YORK (AP) — The forewoman of the federal jury that acquitted John N. Mitchell and Maurice H. Stans said Monday that she and other jurors were convinced the former Cabinet members were telling the truth when they testified in their own behalf at their criminal conspiracy trial.

"Mr. Mitchell, he answered all the questions, and he appeared to be telling the truth," said Sybil Kucharski, 21, a Westchester County bank teller. "The same for Stans."

Miss Kucharski, a Democrat who voted for George McGovern in the 1972 presidential election, said the panel believed the former attorney general and the onetime commerce secretary "were just doing their jobs" as leading figures in President Nixon's re-election campaign.

Questioned on the NBC "Today" show, she also said the jury took only passing notice of what was regarded as a key element of the government's case — that Mitchell allegedly made 19 calls to John Dean in an effort to stymie a Securities and Exchange Commission investigation of financier Robert L. Vesco.

"They made it a big thing," she said. "We didn't make it a big thing."

Miss Kucharski said the testimony of Dean, the ousted White House counsel who has pleaded guilty in the Watergate case, was doubted by the jurors because he admitted he was seeking a lighter sentence for himself.

No Evidence That Hearst Was Doing Or Saying Anything Violent

HILLSBOROUGH, Calif. (AP) — Are Patricia Hearst's startling words being forced from her?

An Associated Press investigation finds no evidence in her background that the 20-year-old heiress to a newspaper fortune would say or do anything violent — much less join terrorists, mouth radical rhetoric or aid in a bank robbery.

But she has done them as the astounding developments of the country's first political kidnapping unwind. Whether or not her actions have been voluntary, whether she has been brainwashed, coerced, threatened, is not known.

This is the story of Patty Hearst before Feb. 4, when the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army claims it kidnapped her, before her friends and fiancé and parents and some impartial experts say she was brainwashed and coerced into saying she would join her captors.

She was known as a bright, self-confident young woman, independent enough to fly the nest with a boyfriend, but caring enough to keep close ties with her family. She took vacations with them, and saw them often. She was making her wedding guest list and picking a China pattern shortly before kidnapping.

Like many of today's youth, she had lived with her boyfriend, Steven Weed, a philosophy graduate student, for the past year and a half. Their relationship was to become marriage in late June.

She was a thoughtful art student at the University of California at Berkeley, once a hotbed of student radicalism but now stirred only by an occasional streaker. She rarely discussed politics.

Domestic life with Weed was quiet. They spent most of their time at home, watching television reruns of "Star Trek" and "Mission Impossible" during long, candle-lit dinners.

They lived in a $250 Berkeley apartment. Their income was a $300 monthly allowance from her parents and a small salary he received as a teacher's assistant.

Patty was an excellent cook, especially good at souffles, cakes and pies. She and Weed listened to the stereo, he favoring the classics, she the soft rock singers Paul Simon, Carole King and Carly Simon.

They had used marijuana, but wine was their thing. They usually had 20 or 30 bottles on hand and were trying to learn better vintages.

They didn't subscribe to the San Francisco Examiner, of which her father, Randolph A. Hearst, is editor and president, or any other newspaper. Their only magazines were Cosmopolitan, satiric National Lampoon and Sunset, a travel and recreational magazine.

The Hearsts learned of the living arrangement shortly before last Christmas. They had thought their daughter had a female roommate.

"Mr. Hearst was more understanding," said Weed. "Mrs. Hearst is very traditional and Catholic, so she was obviously opposed to it. But she finally said, 'Well, you're going to do it anyway,' so there was no big fuss."

Weed, a Princeton University graduate, is six years older than Miss Hearst, who had her 20th birthday in SLA captivity. He is tall and slender, with a brush mustache. An art professor of Patty's described her as "like something painted in the 15th century . . . long, golden-brown hair and perfectly fair skin."

When they went out, Steven and Patty enjoyed prowling auctions and second-hand shops to find antiques and art works.

Last summer they traveled around California, in his Volkswagen or her blue MG, a gift from her parents. They went to Wynton, a Hearst family retreat in the forests of northern California.

Patty is the granddaughter of the publishing giant, William Randolph Hearst. But she knows little about him except as an important collector of art. She has read no biographies about him nor has she seen "Citizen Kane," the fictional film based in part on his life.

She was born the third of five daughters. Both parents have always been busy with their own lives. Besides directing the Examiner against stiff competition from the San Francisco Chronicle, Hearst served as board chairman of the Hearst Corp. His wife, Catherine, helped found the San Mateo Crippled Children's Society and is a regent of the University of California.

The daughters were supervised by a succession of governesses and maids, some good, some bad. An English governess named Heather proved kindly and sympathetic to the problems of the middle daughter as she sought her place in the family and at school.

Patty followed the family tradition: catechism and confirmation at the parish church, teaching from the nuns at the parochial school. She went away from home for the first time to begin high school at tightly-run Santa Catalina School in Monterey.

After the second year she convinced her father she was unhappy and left the school. A rumor that she was expelled for smoking marijuana is denied by the school and her parents.

She enrolled at the less conservative Crystal Springs School. Life began to flower. She discovered art and literature. She took a class trip to Japan and was deeply impressed.

In the fall of 1971 she entered Menlo College, a liberal arts school near Stanford.

She met Weed at Crystal Springs, where he taught math. She pursued him, Weed said, and he was taken by her slim beauty and eagerness for knowledge. They dated regularly.

In the summer of 1972 Patty toured Italy and Greece with her art class. When she returned, she and Weed rented an apartment.

"Patty grew up fast; she didn't appear like an 18-year-old at Berkeley," said Weed. "Our friends were ones I had known, all in the 25-30 age bracket. She fitted very well into the adult world."

Though the Hearsts were upset at their daughter living with Weed, they were visibly relieved that a wedding was planned for June.

It seemed that their world, which combined quiet, graceful living with civic responsibility, would be well-ordered once more.

Then came the night of Feb. 4.

And from that point on the story of Patty Hearst blurs, and the questions that are being raised

Ice skates were common in Scandinavia during the Viking era, and Norse warriors ranked prowess on the ice nearly as high as fighting.

One Vote Could Have Thrown Russell Twp. Into Another County

The vote of one man could have created the 93rd county in Indiana and Russell Township would have been included within its borders.

Very early in the settlement of this area, there was a concerted movement to join the present area of Russell Township with townships in Parke and Montgomery Counties. The new county to be formed by this merger was to be called Bourbon. Russellville was to be the county seat.

After a period of almost 30 years, with Joseph Fordice in the 1851 legislature, a bill was passed to permit the formation of a new county upon consent of commissioners in the counties to be affected. Those in favor of consent lost by one vote and later state legislation dealt a death blow to Russell, like many other areas of Putnam County, went through a period of township musical chairs. All of Putnam was once included in a large area known as Knox County. For a time Russell was joined to Clinton Township and at one time it was known as Hart Township.

In a less mobile society and time, Russell Township was dotted with such towns and villages as Frankfort, Franklin, Newcastle, Cairo, Blakesburg, Portland Mills and Russellville. Of these, the map now shows only the thriving town of Russellville and the resort and camping area of Portland Mills.

Of these early day ghost towns, Blakesburg, named for Col. James and Jesse Blake, made the most promising start and was second in the area only to Greencastle. Its economy revolved around the "sang" factory where ginseng roots, considered to have medicinal qualities, were processed for export.

For reasons not found in histories of Putnam County, Blakesburg went out of existence in the last century and the spot, west Fincastle, is marked only by a cemetery and a section of abandoned church building.

Education was of prime importance to people who came early into Russell Township with the Foshier school established in 1823 near Blakesburg. Of the nine district schools located in the township in 1864, one at least carried a name more descriptive than complimentary. School Number 4, was called Sqamp College.

As early as 1862, the Methodist Church had established a seminary in Russellville and later this became Harmonica College, which at its peak had more than 250 students. High school students of the township are now a part of North Putnam, following the close of Russellville High School.

When pioneers came into Russell Township from various parts of the east and south, they brought with them their faith as well as their families. It is thought that the Dunkard Church was the first in the township, however, many denominations now represented date their foundations to the early days of sesquicentennial history.

Newspaper communications in the township were carried out by such papers as the Itemizer, The Record, The Searchlight and the Russellville News, which continued in publication until 1963.

While the economy of Russell Township can be considered mainly agricultural, grain mill, sawmills and stone quarrying have figured prominently in township's economy.

Among organizations connected with the township's history are the Bourbon Greys, a home guard unit organized in 1861 and the Hazlett Post, No. 550, G.A.R. (Grand Army of the Republic).

Among the active civic and fraternal organizations today are the Booster Club and the American Legion.
